

Daylight Dilemma

Kitchen

PROBLEM

After buying their newly built home the proud owners were delighted to have a beautiful and spacious kitchen.

However after just a couple of weeks, they found that with only a small window, the lights were always being left on.

Because it was a quite large kitchen, they needed to have all 6 lights on.

They hoped for a solution that would not only provide softer, more natural lighting but save them money on their bills too.

SOLUTION:

Two Solatube 250mms were installed over the top of the kitchen bench.

This brightened the entire area drastically and provided the owners with all of the task lighting they required for cooking.

They were also very pleased to report that they never needed to turn the light on again during daylight hours.
